

Undergraduate Research Opportunity

PROJECT

Journal of the Plague Year: A Digital Archive of COVID-19

Prof. Catherine
O'Donnell

History

Hours required p/week:	9
Credits anticipated:	3

This project, "Journal of the Plague Year: A Digital Archive of COVID-19," is a crowd-sourced digital archive of the COVID-19 pandemic. Organized into thematic sites and searchable through its metadata, the archive offers current and future users insight into the way the pandemic has been experienced by people and communities across the world.

TEMPE

ONLINE

STUDENT

Research assistant's duties:

The student researcher will research effects of the pandemic on diverse communities.

Required skills or qualifications:

Ability to work independently as well as collaboratively.

Skills student will acquire:

The ability to identify and analyze primary sources.