Undergraduate Research Opportunity

Analysis of Sexual Assault
Joan McGregor
Philosophy

What constitutes consent and its moral implications is a major philosophical question. In the sexual context is it even more challenging. This project is to research the current theories of sexual consent in order to update an Encyclopedia entry on the topic.

Research assistant’s duties:
Student duties are to research the literature in philosophy and law on accounts of sexual consent, develop and bibliography and write precis on each article.

Required skills or qualifications:
Desired qualifications include strong research and analysis skills, and a knowledge of philosophy.

Skills student will acquire:
Students will develop research skills in philosophy and law.