Undergraduate Research Opportunity

PROJECT

Values on Your Plate
Prof. Joan McGregor
Philosophy

This project, “Values on Your Plate”, is to create a public forum website that features six short, two to five minute, webisodes which will critically engage the public about the humanities' dimensions, for example, the ethical, historical, cultural, and religious aspects of the food system in Arizona.

Research assistant's duties:
The student researcher will research various factual issues and images pertaining to food.

Required skills or qualifications:
Strong research skills, understanding of sustainability issues in relationship to food.

Skills student will acquire:
Organize disparate data, think critically about the food system, evaluate the problems of the food system.